Honest-to-goodness Computing for Seniors

Recently I came across a couple of terrific books that have been written to really help Seniors learn how to use the Mac computer.

These two books have been purchased by our Club and are now in our Mac/Apple Library:
382 “Mac Computing for Seniors”
383 “Macs For Seniors FOR DUMMIES”.

Over the years of reading many similar books I do believe these two books are possibly the best yet to help older folks get started. Even though both books are good, I am inclined to recommend “Mac Computing for Seniors”. Do not be surprised if the book is not on the shelf when you look for it in our Library. I expect it to be popular and circulate steadily.

However, you just may want to have a copy for yourself. To buy books I suggest you visit amazon.com type in a book title and when the description page appears look for:

Buy new: ~~$14.99~~ $10.19 45 Used & new from $8.00

When you click on the Used & new link you will bring up a list of available bargains:

This book, published in the United Kingdom, 2008, boasts the slogan “in easy steps”..... and that is exactly how the information is presented. Easy to read, easy to follow, easy to understand and easy to learn.

Here are the Sections & a few random topics.
